

Appendix 1: Search Strategies

I- Search Methods

We adopted a comprehensive search strategy in order to cover all primary studies irrespective of the region or language of publication as outlined in the inclusion criteria. Only one researcher was responsible for the review and data extraction.

- a- Databases: We carefully selected databases after consulting with UCSF Research Librarians. The included databases were; PubMed, Embase, PsycINFO, The Cochrane Library, Global Index Medicus and Web of Science. We maintained and continuously updated a log sheet that summarized the search strategy, search dates as well as number of hits per database throughout the search process.
- b- Search dates: The search phase took place during the first half of the capstone period between April 26th and May 15th, 2020.
- c- Search strategy: We first conducted a preliminary review of the literature to arrive at PubMed search terms that were commonly associated with the research question. This strategy was considered as a starting point for protocol development and was adapted to the different databases.
